Brokenwood Forest Edge Vineyard Chardonnay

11 April 2015

By Huon Hooke

2014

Brokenwood

Forest Edge Vineyard Chardonnay

Orange, NSW

Light yellow hue and a restrained, shy, slightly mineral aroma, with a little grapefruit and nectarine emerging as it warmed. In the mouth, it's delicate, restrained, tight and reserved. The lightness and drinkability are very good. The palate is subtle, clean and dry, and very restrained. It scores highly for drinkability.

This lightly coloured, very restrained wine is a thoroughly modern iteration of chardonnay. There are mineral aromas with grapefruit and nectarine suggestions, while the palate is delicate, reserved and tightly wound.

Outstanding

Whole bunch pressing, wild yeast fermentation and maturation in French oak have all provided strands to weave the texture and structure of this elegant Chardonnay; the fruit flavours are sotto voce, on the citrus side of the range courtesy of grapefruit juice and pith, crossing back momentarily to white peach; has all the length and balance needed for top-class Chardonnay. Screwcap. 12.5% alcohol. DRINK: to 2024

Lifted aromas, almost floral in nature. Wild ferment, mealy lees character evident and some oak. Shows a little tropical fruit, but its more on the citrus spectrum. Perfect acid carries the flavours to the finish.

This one's also made in the Hunter Valley, but with material sourced from a high altitude vineyard at Orange. It's the epitome of the modern Australian approach, with the emphasis on restrained but intense fruit, lees complexity and texture.
