

Alontin's Australian Wine Reviews - and Beyond

A blog of new and mature wine reviews for the average wine consumer

2004 BROKENWOOD Rayner Vineyard Shiraz

By Alontin

Wednesday, 2nd December 2009

alontin's australian wine reviews - and beyond

897

A BLOG OF NEW AND MATURE WINE REVIEWS FOR THE AVERAGE WINE CONSUMER

wednesday, december 2, 2009

Brokenwood Rayner Vineyard Shiraz

The 2004 Brokenwood Rayner Vineyard Shiraz is a well crafted wine. From an outstanding year in McLaren Vale, the structure is seamless, with velvety fruit caressing the tongue. Unfortunately, the wine is also quite heavily oaked, covering some of the underlying fruit. The wine is still lively and fresh. I hope that over time the fruit will win out over the oak.

Score: 93/-

posted by alontin at 1:44 pm labels: mclaren vale, shiraz